BATURDAY January 11, 1973. The Growth of Washington For some years the annual statement of real estate transactions in Washington, made for THE STAR by the experienced and reliable firm of Kilbourn & Latta, has furnished our readers with important data in regard to the growth of the Capital city. The exhibit this year (given elsewhere) is of unusual interest, as showing the wonderful strides in the path of progress, made under the new order of things here. As set forth in the document, "it shows an activity in real estate transactions at the national capital unparalled, within the same time and proportions, by any other city on the American continent." Not only does the number of new buildings erected in 1872 great exceed that of any previous year, but the value is increasen in a vet larger proportion; and Messrs. Kilbourn & Latta express the opinion from the best information at their command, that the value of buildings to be erected this year will double the value of those built during the past year. This exhibit also presents a complete list the street improvements within the last two years, and from the data presented in this connection we get some idea of the energy with which the task of improving and beautifying the city has been pushed by the District authoriwes during the time they have had control.

The Proposed Increase of Canal Tolls, All indications point to increased activity in the Cumberland coal trade during the coming year, and to steady extension as time moves on. There is nothing visionary in the expectation of a long continuing prosperity to the many large and important interests connected with it. Prominently, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is alive to the situation, and leaves no measures untried to reap the largest harvest it can. No one understands better than Mr. Garrett how rich a lot Providence has cast into the lap of the people of Maryland and Virginia, in those copi-ous deposits of precious mineral hid away in their mines and mountains. Very wisely does his recent report call for "low and uniform rates" of coal transportation of his railroad, rates which consumers may rely upon as permanent throughout all seasons and circumstances. And justly does he appreciate the advantage which must accrue to his road from a general confidence in its moderation and steadiness, when he says, that the eyes of foreign consumers are turned from exhausted Britain to the port of Baltimore (he might have said Maryland at large), because they have been informed "that the coal tariff of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad would not be advanced the coming winter."

The authorities of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal are well aware that they can find no safer path to follow than that trodden by the able and experienced president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The doctrine he teaches for the benefit of his road is the true doctrine for the benefit of the canal. That doctrine cannot be disregarded without peril. To adopt its opposite by increasing the present tolls on the canal, ould, at this critical juncture, be of the very nature of suicide. It is known that large operations in Maryland coal are now under negotiation for foreign account in New York, the coal to be shipped from Georgetown during 1873. We do not know what effect has been produced on the negotiations by the recent suggestions of the president of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal with regard to the increase of toll, but it is plain to every eye that the effect is not likely to be beneficial. Not only may the shrewd judgment of President Garrett be pleaded against the policy, but the reasons advanced for it rest on no ground surer than bare assumption. Even a worse fate than would befall a merchant who should hope to enrich himself by marking up his wares ten or twenty per cent. above the customary price might be expected for a company which should advance its tolls ten cents a ton, whilst its competitors were diminishing theirs by a like amount. If, under the present canal tariff, eight hundred thousand tons of coal per annum have been carried to market, will not an increase of tolls be about the surest way to reduce this tonnage, and to teach the outside world that whilst the counsels of the Baltimore railroad are controlled by moderation and steadiness those of the Chesand extortionate. The existing prosperity of the canal is due to the wisdom and firmness of its previous administrations in refusing to disturb the established rate of toll, thereby giving assurance of the same qualities for which the Baltimore and Ohio railroad seeks to be distin-

It is true that the suggestion thrown out by President Gorman was a suggestion only, yet it was potent enough to command a special comthe basis of what interest, let it be asked, will the committee report? Who will be consulted on the topic, so full as it is of weal or woe to the thousands of people whose lives and interest have become entwined with the welfare of the canal? Will the boat-builders, the miners, the boatmen, the people of the whole western border of the state, and the state itself, be consulted on this vital subject. A false step now may take years to efface, and is the present canal administration willing to reverse the wise and wholesome maxims of its predecessors, and to embark on a new course with all but absolute raise its tolls at the moment when the railroad is not advancing theirs? And for what save a mere shadowy presumption -a presumption contradicted by the past experience and present prosperity of the canal. Let it be remembered hat not only are eyes and hearts at home busily engaged in this matter, but the stranger who ontemplates a large and valuable trade with us, is looking on with doubtful expectation. Will the canal authorities drive him away, that he must needs seek refuge with the railroad? thatever their design, such must be the inevitable effect of the policy that has been foresladowed, if carried out.

King Kamehameha V of the Sandwich Islands ing died without naming a successor, Prince William C. Lunalilo has issued a proclamation saying that, notwithstanding by the law of inritance, he is the rightful heir to the throne, yet he will submit his claim to the people to be fairly expressed by a plebiscitum. He promises much, and it is thought he will be elected by an overwhelming majority. Mrs. Mattoon, wife of our consul at Honolulu, who has lived in Hawaii, is now in this city, says that he is about birty-five years of age; is a well formed, handsome man of his race; has received a good educa-tion, speaks French and English, and is a man of brains and force, but has unfortunately been very dissipated. Latterly, however, it is said he has reformed. A late letter from Honolulu says: Even our most ardent republicans and annexationists are now well content with the Prince, feeling satisfied that he will rule the country in accordance with liberal and strictly constitutional principles, that he will call around him new, liberal, and men of progressive ideas; and that his reign will no doubt lead the way to the establishment of a purely representative government. It is highly probable that the Prince, when King, will propose to Her Majesty Queen Emma, which wall be a union highly satisfactory to the country.

The Pacific Hool Advertiser, published at Hawail, regards the crisis as perilous, and says if the people do not awake and at once take vigor-ous action in defence of their constitutional rights and liberties, they will find themselves reduced to the condition of slaves, and utterly at the mercy of usurpers.

The Hawaiian Gasette, on account of the lateness of the hour at which the news of the death of the king was received, has nothing to say relative le his successor. The papers of the islands print the official announcement of the death of the king, also orders relative to wearing the usual mourning.

Don't ADVERTISE .- Don't do it. Don't advertise your husiness; it costs money and accommo dates other folks. If people want to buy your goods, let them bunt you up and inquire what you have for sale.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. In the New York money market the stock brokers yesterday paid 7 per cent. gold per annum to 1-82 per day and interest for money with which to carry their stocks. On government bonds there was no difficulty in borrowing money at 7 per cent. currency, but that class of collateral was scarce. Mercantile paper was quoted from 9 to 12 per cent. The fact that some of the old railroad companies are in the market as borrowers to a greater extent than for years past, also tends to keep rates high. The stock market was rather dull and heavy.

ROSADALIS WILL CURB THE WORST cases of DYSPEPSIA. Gilbert Hale, Washington, N. C., writes: cases of DYSPEPSIA. Gilbert Hale, Washington, N.C., writes:
For three or four years I have had Dyspepsia in its worst form; at times not being able to retain on my stomach even a piece of hard bread and cold water. My feet and ankles were much swoilen for months, and I became so much reduced in flesh as to be scarcely able to get up without assistance. With little hope of ever getting better, or of living long, I began to take Rosadalis. I used four bottles, and for three months past I have been doing regular work on my farm; feeling well and strong, and am now able to eat with impunity the coarsest kind of diet, such as pork, potatoes, &c. I can recommend Rosadalis as a valuable remedy.

3 IS IT NECESSARY TO WORRY about Con-IS IT NECESSARY TO WOERY about Contagious diseases when we have near at hand a preventive whose eminent qualities have been confirmed by more than twenty years of success in Europe and in this country? At a time when the Small Pox and other diseases threaten to spread so rapidly in consequence of the extreme severity of the weather, it is of the greatest importance to build up our constitutions, in order to resist and fight against all the kinds of pernicious influences which surround us; therefore, it would be impossible to call too strongly the stiention of the public on this very important point, that is the use of Bitters prepared with the greatest care, according to the principles of the medical art, and which, in consequence of their action on the blood, stomach, liver and principal organs of the body, produces such incontestable results. Moreover, it is so agreeable to the taste that there is no tonic which can be compared to them. If you want to be convinced go to your druggist, and ask for Dr. L. G. BERTRAM'S LONG-LIFE BITTERS; after trying them you will give away with all other kind of medicine.

Dr. Tutt: In gratitude for the benefit received by the use of your Expectorant, I do cheerfully add my testimony to its most wonderful effects in relieving Asthma or Brouchitis. For several years I had suffered dreadfully with severe attacks of Asthma or difficulty of breathing. I was induced by the high recommendations given to your Expectorant to try it, and found that it gave almost humediate relief. It is about five months since I began its use; I have used six bottles, and have not had an attack since. It has been a great blessing to me; I cannot afford to be without it, and I heartify recommend it to all persons who are at all troubled with lung or throat diseases.

del4 FROM THE EARLIEST AGES TO the present day, Scrofula has been the bane, and, as it were, the curse of mankind. So terrible and loat asome had been at some periods of the world's history that a person known to be infected with it would not be allowed to mix with society.
